Ebrille pre-insulated copper tubes for air conditioners and heat pumps are now offered with UV protection.

The white insulation is very performing but may deteriorate if not protected against UV rays. By adding a thin aluminium coating over the insulation, it becomes well protected against the effects of the sun's rays.

There is not only the insulation that is of superior quality. The copper tubing used by Ebrille is manufactured in Europe, so you have a winning combination for quality installations which will last for years. Use it for your commercial or residential projects, big or small.

Ebrille's pre-insulated copper tubing will always be at the quality level of the service you offer your customers.
